Tarleton State University – Southwest Metroplex, an outreach center of Tarleton State University, has operated programs serving the needs of Tarrant, Johnson and Parker Counties for over 30 years. Initial programs started in 1978 in the area of Medical Laboratory Science provide critically needed health care professionals for the rapidly growing Metroplex. Those programs were followed by cooperative programs with the Fort Worth ISD to offer an alternative teacher certification program to meet critical needs for teachers in 2000. Since that time, Tarleton has expanded program offerings at this location, to include a variety of programs in Education, Counseling, Business, Psychology, Industrial Engineering, and Criminal Justice. Programs include both master's level course work, and junior/senior level courses for baccalaureate degree completion. Baccalaureate degree completion programs are designed to build upon associate programs offered at Tarrant County Community College, Weatherford College and Hill College-Johnson County.

Students enrolling at Tarleton – Southwest Metroplex may choose courses and entire programs offered via a variety of delivery modes including face-to-face, blended or on-line. Some programs may be offered in a wholly on-line format, some blended and some face-to-face, while others are offered in a cohort model. Consult the programs listing for the type of delivery modes available for each program offered through the Southwest Metroplex Center.

Tarleton – Southwest Metroplex has a diverse student population comprised mostly of working-adults seeking master's degrees and community college graduates or returning students seeking baccalaureate completion degrees. Classes are offered in the evenings, days and weekends to accommodate both part-time and full-time students. Advisors and support staff are available to assist with admission and degree plans.

Administrative offices for the Tarleton – Southwest Metroplex are located at 6777 Camp Bowie Boulevard, Fort Worth, Texas at the Hickman Building. Classrooms are located in Tarleton operated facilities at the Hickman Building in Fort Worth, the R.C. Schaffer Building in Fort Worth, and the Dora Lee Langdon Center in Granbury. In addition, classrooms may be utilized at Weatherford College in Weatherford, Hill College in Cleburne, Tarrant County College in Fort Worth and Arlington, and Luella Merritt School-FWISD in Fort Worth.

Tarleton State University – e-Campus operates to serve the needs of students who are geographically dispersed and who may be unable to attend traditional face-to-face classes at Tarleton's Stephenville campus or at the Southwest Metroplex or Waco off-campus locations. In response to the needs of learners who desire fully on-line degree programs, Tarleton developed one of the first on-line graduate Agriculture degrees in 2003. Since that time, Tarleton has expanded its on-line offerings to include graduate and undergraduate completion programs in a variety of programs, such as Business, Criminal Justice, Agriculture, and Manufacturing and Industrial Management.

The e-Campus offers a set of wholly on-line master's programs, a set of on-line baccalaureate completion programs (45 upper level semester credit hours), and a limited number of blended (part on-line, part face-to-face) cohort programs at select remote locations. Students desiring admission to the e-campus for distant learners may not reside in the following twelve Texas Counties: Comanche, Eastland, Erath, Hamilton, Hill, Hood, Johnson, McLennan, Palo Pinto, Parker, Somerville, or Tarrant. Students residing within these counties may enroll in on-line and blended programs but must do so from one of the following campus locations: main Tarleton State University campus in Stephenville, Tarleton's Southwest Metroplex Center in Fort Worth, or the University Center at MCC in Waco.

Tarleton's e-Campus has a diverse student population comprised of working-adults seeking master's degrees and community college graduates or returning students seeking baccalaureate completion degrees delivered on-line. Advisors and support staff are available to assist with admission and degree plans.

Administrative offices for Tarleton's e-Campus are located at 6777 Camp Bowie Boulevard, Fort Worth, Texas at the Hickman Building. Classes are delivered fully on-line through Tarleton's course management system, Blackboard.

Seven fully on-line graduate level master's degree programs and eight on-line undergraduate degree completion programs are available through Tarleton's e-Campus.

Graduate Programs include:

- Master of Business Administration
- Master of Criminal Justice
- Master of Science, Agriculture and Consumer Resources
- Master of Science, Human Resources Management
- Master of Science, Information Systems
- Master of Science, Management and Leadership
- Master of Science, Manufacturing Quality and Leadership
