

SHRM seeks applicants for $10,000 Fellowship for Masters Level Study in HR

The Society for Human Resource Management, the SHRM Foundation and the Human Resource Certification Institute are seeking applicants for a $10,000 fellowship for first time masters level students in HR. The extended deadline to apply is September 30, 2010. Please share this information with students and others you know who are starting graduate school or who started a graduate program in HR within the last year.

Information about the Fellowship. The Susan R. Meisinger Fellowship for Graduate Study in HR is named for retired president and CEO, Sue Meisinger, who continues to be a great supporter of higher education in human resources. The award is geared toward those who want to leverage significant past contributions affecting the human resource management field and who wish to continue contributing to HR in a significant way by earning a graduate degree in HR.

Details are available at www.shrm.org/meisinger where applicants can download Frequently Asked Questions (FAQs) and the application form. The FAQs address eligibility and submission requirements.

The fellowship is also available to those who were just accepted this spring to begin studies in summer or fall 2010, or who will begin studies in spring 2011.

The fellowship is renewable for an additional year based on academic performance during the student's first year of study. Questions? Please direct questions to fellowship@shrm.org.
